The ministry of rural development has decided to bail out the Kashmiri youth struggling to find accommodation in other states.

The ministry has decided to issue the Kashmiri youths employed under government schemes bonafide certificates to help them finding accommodation in other states.

The ministry has decided to step in with a helping hand after getting reports that there had been huge drop outs among the Kashmiri youths who were trained and given placement at entry level jobs in various companies under the Himayat Programme.

It was observed that the house owners in other states were not easily taking in the Kashmiri youths as tenants.
